

Water Works Summer Camp for Families

A place to be with your kids

An exploration of arts, science and nature

July 26 to 30, 2021

Schedule: daily 10:00 to 11:30 am
Workshop will be held online, live only
Times are Pacific Time

with Herb Walsh

Herb will guide families and individuals in the observation of the world of water science through a mixture of online presentations, home-based experiments and field trips into nature in our own neighborhoods.

The week will include water activity observation, plant growth forms, and an ongoing scavenger hunt with daily clues.

A family scavenger hunt will discover the water and nature forms in our everyday world and the growth stages of a plant, which will also be modelled with an inner search for form that invites the participants to create their own forms along the way.

This course is designed to get families, and friends, exploring natural phenomena together and off screen as much as possible.

Participants will have a chance to visit video resources before, during and after the workshop.

One week workshop, open to families and individuals.

Registration is open until the workshop begins

Cost per family, or individual: $225

For more information please contact Barbarah Nicoll
info@westcoastinstitute.org | 604-740-0539

Visit our website to register